Dear valued Pharmalucence Customer,

Effective today, Pharmalucence has decided to suspend all future manufacturing of:

Pulmolite®

Albumin Aggregated for Injection (MAA) For Diagnostic Use

This decision has been made for business reasons and we are currently evaluating options to return to production. We will notify you if and when production resumes. In the meantime, we will continue to market product from our current lot in inventory until such inventory is exhausted. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me directly.

Thank you for your support, and thanks especially to all of you who have been loyal Pulmolite® brand customers over the past many years.

Regards,
